Newsletter #58 / September 29, 2022

Brothers and Sisters,

The Government of Saskatchewan has proclaimed September 30, 2022, as Truth and Reconciliation Day in the province.

The provincial government and I.B.E.W. Local 2067 recognize Truth and Reconciliation Day as an important day of remembrance and reflection for those who have suffered harm and to honor those whose lives were lost at residential schools.

The residential school system represents a sad chapter in this country's history, with harmful integrational impacts on Indigenous people and communities throughout the country.

"Our province remains committed to our partnership with First Nations and Metis people and communities as we move forward together on the continuous path of reconciliation," Minister responsible for First Nations, Metis and Northern Affairs Don McMorris said. "September 30 is an important day for reflection, and I encourage all Saskatchewan people to use this as an opportunity to commemorate the tragic legacy of residential schools in our province."

We would also like to acknowledge the victims of recent tragic events at James Smith Cree Nation and surrounding areas.

May we all join together in solidarity, human kindness and compassion.
